“The palest shade of blush peonies were the floral focal point”

“Bursting with elegance and a sensational array of details, this shoot was all about a soft colour palette and timeless styling,” says planner and stylist Hayley Bunting. And, providing the perfect backdrop was the discreetly positioned Old Brook Barn, nestled within the picturesque village of Navestock, Essex, with stunning views across a beautiful meadow, a secret garden, a brook, secluded courtyard and a recently converted shepherd’s hut.

A colour palette of soft pink and contrasting gold tones was carried through from the bride’s personalised trinket tray to the pretty tablescape, styled with tapered candles, gold-beaded charger plates, handmade cotton rag stationery, biscuit favours, and silk napkins and table runner. “All of which were further offset with an impressive collection of blooms, each displayed in a variety of cut-glass vessels,” says Hayley.

Beautifully pale blush peonies were the floral focal point. In keeping with the theme of classic elegance, an exquisite installation of peonies, roses and lashings of foliage adorned Old Brook Barn’s wedding ceremony gazebo, further complemented by an unstructured centrepiece overflowing with fragrant blooms on the ceremony table. But it was the elegant floral pew ends, each secured with hand-dyed silk ribbons that fluttered in the breeze, that transformed the Secret Garden into the ceremony set-up of dreams.

Reflecting the barn’s rustic charm, the converted horsebox bar was the perfect addition to the countryside celebration. “The flower installation enhanced the Blooming Bar, as well as an abundance of flower ice cubes, made using edible flowers,” says Hayley.
